

Basics camp review

Basics camp was at Riffhams scout field and was held on the 3rd-4th of October. We all slept in 'bivies' which we made our self out of tarpaulins and rope. We made huge fires which we cooked our dinner on which consisted of kebabs, jacket potatoes, fish(which we cooked in newspaper), and a lucky dip tin.

Later on in the night, everyone did a massive wide game all over the camp site which went on for a few hours, especially when a few of the scouts didn't hear the whistle to come back to camp. We were up bright and early the next morning to relight our fires so we could cook breakfast, which was sausages and eggs.

Basics camp is a lot different to other camps as you can only use basic materials and we had to collect our own firewood and the sources of wood were very scarce. Overall I would rate this 8/10 and it is one of the better camps.
